The joys of Christmas

Elk Point Elementary School students romped through two very entertaining concerts last week. Above, Santa and Rudolph pilot skateboards laden with elves and toy sacks in the final Survivor challenge, while at left, the KB crew does the reindeer hokey pokey.

Elk Point Elementary School hosted a pair of capacity crowds at two enjoyable concerts last week, with gleeful students singing, dancing and prancing their way through "Survivor: North Pole" and "A Place in the Christmas Choir."

Both concerts started with "O Canada", led Wednesday by Ashley Wozniak and Desiree Rosher and Thursday by Sherida Germain and Brittany McGee, and with messages from school board chairman Darrell Younghans and Principal Lorne Young.

"The biggest factor behind a successful concert is the participants," Younghans told Wednesday's audience. "We are all here because of and for the kids. They are our future, our legacy." During his second visit to the school, he told parents, "your being here is one of the best gifts you can give your child and yourself. These memories will last longer than any I-pod, X-box, Barbie or Elmo." He urged them to "do something special with your kids this holiday season."

"Our students go out of their way to make sure this concert happen," Young said Wednesday. "There's nothing like a Christmas concert to get you in the mood for Christmas." The school has "a long, long, long tradition of entertaining," he added at the second concert. "It's a gift from our students to the community."

Wednesday's concert started with Mrs. Wood's KA class reciting "Five Little Bells" and singing "Ring Those Bells" and "Christmas Time is Here."

Chamber announces lighting winners

By VICKI BROOKER

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce named their 2006 Christmas Lighting and Decorating Contest winners last week.

Deep snow could not deter the judges from their appointed rounds Tuesday evening, with Ravine Drive, site of this year's first prize winners, providing some of the most challenging driving conditions.

David Buksa and Jeannette Bouchard moved up from second place last year to take the win, with their red, white and bright colour scheme making the snowy trek well worth it.

Second place went to Mavis Smereka on Elk Point's northernmost avenue, with another handsome red-and-white display, while Donna and Gary Gulayec's blue-and-white trimmings on 49 Ave. and Cheryl and Harvey Derewynka's 54A St. candy-cane-decked display tied for third.

Honourable mentions included two-year winner Nemesio Tulaio, Violet McFadyen, Tara Preusche and Craig Martin, Jean Digol and Lynda and Brian Letwin.

All is calm, all is bright on Ravine Drive, where David Buksa and Jeannette Bouchard captured the judges' approval with their stunning decor.

Like the TV show of the same name, "Survivor" was back again, and this time Santa figures it's a sure bet that he could win enough money to overcome the budget and labour problems at the North Pole. The elves are complaining because all the reindeer do is eat, sleep and party while the toyshop crew are working their tiny fingers to the bone. Rudolph decided he'd better go too, just to make sure, and ends up on the Mistletoes, while Santa is recruited for the Holly Berries.

The first challenge for both teams is stocking stuffing, and Santa shows his expertise while Rudy is definitely all hooves. A group of youngsters in pajamas and slippers trooped in to explain in song just what they want in their stockings, before the Mistletoes head off to tribal council and voted out Sandra.

Their next challenge was a sweet one, introduced in song by a group of candy-cane kids before the teams cover a pair of trees with candy canes. The Mistletoes are slow and steady; Santa's gang is in too big a hurry and finds themselves at tribal council, where a most annoyed Pavarotti was voted off the ice cap. Everyone agreed that Santa might not be as good at hanging candy canes, but he really is cool... especially when he puts on his shades and leather jacket, to match the next group of singers.

The next challenge saw the teams tossing snowballs into barrels, and once again, out-of-shape Santa comes up short. Singers gleeful that, "It Snowed in the Middle of the Night" were accompanied by snow-fort builders and a pair of dancing snowmen, before a tearful Jonathan was voted off the Holly Berry tribe.

It's time for the final challenge and Santa gets word that the reindeer have been dancing all night and will be too tired to haul toys. What to do? How about loading the sacks of toys on skateboards and having a race to see who can deliver fastest. After Azi is voted off, the teams merge for the final challenge, but the others suggest that they concede the contest to Santa so he gets the million and the children of the world will get their toys.

It's against the rules, but game organizer Jackie thinks it's a good idea. "We're better, and can go on longer when we work as a team."

Wednesday's concert starred the 1A to 6A classes and the 6C class.

An altogether different problem faced Thursday's B classes, after the dancing reindeer of KB did the Hokey Pokey and spelled out 'Rudolph' in rhyme.

Santa has to find a way for everyone to take part in the Christmas choir, and their newest recruit isn't really fitting in... in fact, he sounds like a hound dog. That's not surprising, since he is one, but some of the singers say things have been going downhill "ever since we let the animals in." "There's no room for you," a troop of finger-pointing singers tell the dejected dog.

He does have a following, however, and a trio of his friends and a passel of puppies show up to plead his case. "It's a doggone shame," they say, before breaking in to a barking version of Jingle Bells.

Christmas cats, with and without hats, sing of "Up on the housetop, kittens' paws," in support of animal vocalizing, and a bunch of rock'n'roll enthusiasts also show up in support of the hound dog, even to the point of getting him up to dance.

It's Mrs. Santa, however, that puts her foot down and says the hound dog must be heard. "Everyone brings his own gift," she says. "This is where I draw the line."

Singers in the costumes of many lands second that motion, caroling, "At Christmas, there's room for us all."

Mrs. Santa has the very song to include the hound: after the whole gang sings "Angels We Have Heard on High," he gets to howl a solo in "Deck the Halls." The puppies come tumbling back in for the traditional finale, "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

MCs for Wednesday's concert were Hayley Ference and Brayden Vinge, while Thursday's were Sarah Harms and Jarrod Loughran.

Increased funding for schools

By RACHEL DE WAAL
Staff Writer

The St. Paul Education Regional Division will be giving more money to its schools.

"Every school in the division is going to get more," said Supt. Doug Yeo.

He said the board decided at its Dec. 13 meeting to allocate almost $300,000 to schools, based on $75 per student.

Yeo said the division was able to increase funding because enrollment numbers were higher than expected.

St. Brides School

The province approved demolition of the old St. Brides School, but won't provide funding for it, said Secretary-Treasurer Jean Champagne at the Dec. 13 meeting.

He added the board would likely have to take money from its Infrastructure Maintenance and Renewal funding.

The division began receiving IMR funding in April, when responsibility for the area was transferred from Alberta Infrastructure and Transportation to Alberta Education. The funding is meant for upgrading school facilities to meet health and safety regulations, improve energy efficiency and meet the requirements for special needs students.

"It feels like a slap in the face to use IMR money," said Champagne.

Student bursaries

The board passed a motion to increase funding for student bursaries for academic achievement.

The top student in each Grade 12 class will receive $300, the top student in each Grade 9 class will receive $200 and the top student in each Grade 6 class will receive $100.

Each school will be able to develop its own criteria for choosing their Grade 6 recipient, provided the criteria is centered on academic achievement.

"I think we want to show a commitment to valuing achievement," said Trustee Ron Rudkowsky.

Information request

The board will have to send information about its francophone students to a francophone school board in Edmonton, said Yeo.

The board is required to pass the information on to any board that requests it, due to recent legislation regarding student record regulation, said Yeo.

"If (parents) want to challenge it they can," he said. "We have no choice."

Crime prevention questionnaire

The board supported sending out a crime prevention survey to division students.

A place in the Christmas choir

Mrs. Vinge's 1B puppies think it's a doggone shame that their hound dog friend isn't welcome in the choir.

There ain't nothin' like a hound dog when it comes to good old 1950s-style rock and roll dancing, as these Grade 6B students clearly demonstrate.

At Christmas, there's room for all, say the singers from many lands from Mr. Hymanyk's 3B class.

Santa on ice

Santa stopped in at the CanSkate class on Wednesday, and enjoyed a visit with all the skaters as well as a turn around the rink. Below, he helped Millie Orr to make the draws in the skating club raffle. Carmen Magosse won the quilt, Don Conrad the afghan and Robert Lawrence the padded bench.

Cats with and without hats from Grade 4 Find the situation a-mews-ing, and only care if they get to sing.

Even the other animals from Mrs. Tkachuk's Grade 2b don't want the hound in the choir, and do some finger pointing, declaring "there's no room for you."

Mrs. Santa (second from left) put her foot down and insisted that at Christmastime, everyone brings their own gift and should be part of the celebration.

"In order for a community to have a safe environment, we need the help of everybody," said crime prevention co-ordinator Bob Nolin. He thanked trustees for giving their blessing to distribute the survey among students.

Hand sanitizers

The board will continue to seek information on pricing for putting hand sanitizers in classrooms.

Trustee Rhea Looy suggested the board also get information from the health authority on the alcohol in the sanitizers.

"The alcohol in the gel burns kids' hands that have eczema or dry skin," said Looy. "A lot of parents are not sure we should go this route."

WAN tower sale

The board accepted the winning bid on the sale of its wide area network towers located at Westcove and Heinsburg.

However, the amount of the bid was not released.

St. Paul Solution

Discussions on the St. Paul Solution are at a standstill, said Champagne.

"As far as we know, nothing is happening. Timing-wise, we are thinking we missed the opportunity to do anything this summer," he said.

EARLY DEADLINE

Due to the New Year's Day holiday, deadline for the Jan. 2 issue will be 4 p.m. Wed. Dec. 27.
